

#39 *Father
Pigeon and Son*
Pigeon
❧❧❧

A father and son pigeon were feeding near a homestead. Suddenly, they were caught in a trap. Father pigeon was first to react. He explained that they needed to quickly work together to get out of the trap before they would be collected for someone's dinner. To escape, one needed to hold the lever, while the other moved the bar. "Father," the son piped up, "I do not fully understand what to do." His father launched into explanation, "Well son, picture this. I will describe the operations ..."
"Dad," his son interrupted, "if time is so short, show me - don't tell me!" His father held the lever and motioned to his son.
They escaped just in time.

SHOWING IS BETTER THAN TELLING