

#49 The Two Crows

Said one old crow to another, “We are friends are we not?”

“You know we are,” replied the second crow, “we have celebrated many years together.” “Yet, is it not the truth that we are sick and tired of each other’s jokes?” asked the first crow.

“Yes, yes,” admitted the second crow, “and we are easily annoyed by habits that we have seen many a time.” “So, I ask you old friend, why do you keep considering me a colleague?” His friend answered, “I don’t have another lifetime friend. I have you.”

FRIENDS ARE NOT PERFECT - BUT THEY ARE IRREPLACEABLE
